As one of the leading associations in the area of automatic control in Serbia, in 1985 SAUM grew up from the Society of Serbia for Systems, Automatic Control and Measurements - USAUM which was founded in the long-ago passed 1980. SAUM consists of several regional SAUM Societies. The role of SAUM is to help all the aspects of automatic control development in Serbia. This is why since its very foundation it has had rich range of activities as: scientific presentations through many differently oriented scientific sessions, national and international seminars, scientific journal publishing and especially scientific conferences organized each third year since 1982. These important scientific gatherings have become traditional.

Following the success of the previous Conferences, the SAUM is pleased to announce the X Triennial International SAUM Conference.

Some more information on Niš

Niš or Nish (Latin: Naissus, Greek: Ναϊσσός Naissos) is a city in Serbia situated at 43.3 N 21.9 E, on the river Nišava. It is the third largest city in the country. The city covers an area of about 597 square kilometers, including the city of Niš itself, the Niška Banja spa and 68 suburbs. The Constantine the Great Airport in Niš (Аеродром Константин Велики) is the international airport with the destination code INI. Niš is the administrative center of the same named District of Serbia.

Situated at the crossroads of Balkan and European highways, connecting Asia Minor to Europe, Niš is one of the oldest cities in the Balkans, and has from ancient times been considered a gateway between the East and the West.

Niš is the university center. There are about 30,000 students at the University of Niš, which comprises 13 faculties. Niš is also one of the most important industrial centers in Serbia, a center of electronics industry, industry of mechanical engineering, textile industry and tobacco industry.

X Triennial International
SAUM Conference
on
Systems, Automatic Control and Measurements
SAUM 2010

Dedicated to 50 years of Education in Information Technologies, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering in Niš

First Announcement and Call for Papers

SAUM - Association of Serbia for Systems Automatic Control and Measurements
Niš
Serbia
November 10th – 12th, 2010
Submission Information

The conference topics are problems of theory, engineering, production, application, usage and selling of hydraulic, pneumatic, electrical, electronic, computer technology based and combined control components, semi-automatic, automatic control systems, measurement, mechatronics, information technologies and their implementation in measurement and control. The Conference will consist of a number of plenary, regular and invited sessions.

Papers for regular sessions

The procedure is as follows: First you should submit an abstract of 400-600 words which will be reviewed by Program Committee. After receiving the provisional acceptance notification you are required to submit your full camera-ready paper to the conference.
